The warfeld Auction.

The sale of the Warfle'd properties in St. Louis County was held yesterday by the Mercandle Trust Company, arting as trustee under the will. The rine had been extensively advertised, and as the day was perfect the crowd at the various properties was very large. The officials of the Trust Company state and the proces ruled low, but that in view of the fact that it was a forced sale in order to close an estate, it might be termed a successful rale, as all the property was disposed of.

The first property offered was the McKnight farm of HT acres, conceded to be the most picturesque country estate adjacent to at Laus. This was pold for $500 per acre to Abraham White, president of the De Forest Wireless Felgeraph Company, who bought for a country home and as an investment. The next highest hidder for this place was Max Kotany, the well-known broker, whose bid was $250 per acre. The bidding was started at $150 per fort and rose rapidly in bide of $5 to $10, there being as many as twelve bidders on this particular corner. The left was finally sold to a client of McNair & Harris at $215 per foot, the second bidder being E. C. Becker, the well-known capitalist, who bid $212.50. This is the highest price that any lot has ever and for in $1, Louis County.

The greatest interest was attached to the well-known capitalist, who bid $212.50. This is the highest price that any lot has ever noid for in $1, Louis County.

EXPLORES ABYSSINIA TO PROMOTE AMERICAN TRADE

Doctor Emil Gribeschock, Home From East Africa, Tells of His Experiences in King Menelik's Domain-Received With Great Cordiality by the Emperor Himself-Natives Live in Scattered Villages-United States Cotton in Demand.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL

New York, Nov. II.—With the arrival here of El Hadji Abdullahi Aly Sadik Pasha, who is Hakel of Harrar, Abyssima, and special envoy to this ecuntry of King Menelik of Abyssinia, interest is renewed in the question of trade relations between that country and America.

Merchants and other business men who are wondering what opportunities exist in the kingdom of Menelik will be interested in a description of an exploring expedition through Abyssinia by Doctor Emil Gribeschock of New York City, who has just returned and who gives a lucid and en ertaining account of his experiences there.

has just returned and who gives a lucid and en ertaining account of his experiences there.

"A few months ago." he says, "I decided to take a trip to Ethiopia for the purpose of commercial exploration.

"I knew a commercial treaty between the United States and King Menel k. who styles himself 'the Lion of the Tribe of Judah has conquered: Menellk II by the grace of God, King of Kings of Ethiopia." had been concluded, but I heard nothing of any of our merchants profiting by this treaty. Why, then, not see what opportunities for American enterprise lie in this unknown land?

"I salled from New York last November. Inving laid in a stere not only of provisions, clothing, weapons and ammunition, but also of beels, cloth and such other articles as I had learned might be profitably traded to the natives for their valuable products.

"It seemed best to make haste slowly, so, arriving at Aden, on the Red Sea, I looked with some care into the conditions nevalling there upon the principle that a man must know the strength and weakness of his competitors before he enters the contest.

"I found that the English Government, having made Aden the Gibraltur of the Enst by its fortifications at that point.

"I found that the English Government, having made Aden the Gibrultur of the East by its fortifications at that point, had drawn thither many of the Indian Purpees, and that these largely control all the natural products of Arabia and Northeast Africa, making this the central market of the district into the night.

GREETED BY MENELIK.

"Again on the march across the Abyssinian Alps we journeyed carefully and slowly, for the trails are only the dry beds of what are streams luring the rainy season, and our animals walk over nothing but rolling stones, on which they alip and slide at immirent risk to beast and rider. "It was just after we left Irna, descending one of the mountains, that we noted a sea of tents, the camp of the caravan of Ras Makonen, on his way back from the capital to Harrar, his residence. There were some 2,00 persons in his caravan, and twice as many cattle and sheep.

"On the left of the plain was a smaller camp, which we found to be a Russian embassy on the way to Addia Ababa. When we had pitched our camp and raised the Stars and Strines, a line of men and women marched down the hill in our direction. These were the servants of Ras Makonen, coming with the durse. They brought seventy native pancakes, two clates of pepper sauce, two sheep and a bir bunch of sugar cane.

"The spekesman welcomed me in the name of his master, and, after receiving his present, returned, as my soldiers fired a sulter of twenty guns.

"The next morning I paid an official call on Ras Makonen, who received me cordially in his tent. He stated that his royal master and the people would welcome American commerce and aid us in every way. I, of course, presented him with a hunting riffe and 5% cartridges, after which he shook hands cordially and we went on our way.

"Several days later we reached Lag-bardin, after hard travel my and down the
